

To Do List:

-look for crime and animal data! Add below for unsafe &

<https://communitycrimemap.com/>

<https://www.neighborhoodscout.com/mi/detroit/crime>

- Consolidates a lot of local police data
- Also provides info on what type of crime

<https://clearmap-chicagopd.hub.arcgis.com/>

- Links to the map below

<https://data.cityofchicago.org/Public-Safety/Crimes-Map/dfnk-7re6>

- Has info down to streets/specific spots on streets
- Can't figure out how to filter by crime type

<https://locationinc.com/crime-risk-data/>

<https://www.crimemapping.com/map>

- This boi just maps a lot of crime but california and not much else

<https://www.adt.com/crime>

- They're selling security systems so bias but might be a good starting point

Not the best for Chicago

Definition for Vehicle Sus-ness:

- Violent crime
- Theft
- areas/neighborhoods that are traditionally a bit sus
- Vandalism << most relevant to vehicle susness (we'll focus on parked car situations)

Chicago Police Report: <https://home.chicagopolice.org/statistics-data/crime-statistics/>

Chicago Crime Map: <https://www.neighborhoodscout.com/il/chicago/crime>

Factors to Consider:

- Crime rates in each area
- Type of crimes (want to primarily focus on violent crime, vandalism in parking lots, car thefts and attempted car hijackings, shootings in areas)
- Urban planning (ex. New York City and KCMO), redlining from decades ago that have allowed certain areas to thrive whereas others struggle to improve economic status
  - Generally highlights higher risk neighborhoods
-

What to Look For:

- Crime reports
- Maps of crime distribution
- Where security systems are typically installed
  - The areas that don't have it are the areas we are gonna have more crime
- If insurance reports thefts and vandalism damages?

Things to Note:

- Seems to have a company that has consolidated a lot of these police reports (the source for the neighborhoodscout website)
- Gentrification can cause changes in larger cities
- Some are hard lines whereas others blur into more dangerous
- Need to be careful with maps because some may highlight a lot of crime but may be more petty theft (i.e. Cambridge because college towns)